The Two Parties Stand Dead-Locked in the House.

THE PROSPECTS OF THE TARIFF. The President Invited to Visit Texas-The Colored Exposition in Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, April 9 .- [Special.]-The deadlock still continues, and any sort of a setthement except a complete surrender on one side or the other seems not to be hoped for. Every one acknowledges that the time for a compromise has passed, and both sides seem determined to hold out until their opponents surrender. The obstructionists are more determined than ever, and appear to be strengthening their position. The speaker remains firmly with the filibusters, which, in connection with the fact that the president agrees with the principle they are fighting for, has undoubtedly made them more determined than ever. The deadlock may be set down as one of the straws which indicate the direction of the wind. Five days having been consumed, the bill still remains where it was.

Tuesday, a work from tomorrow, is the time fixed upon for the consideration of the tariff bill in the house; but will it be considered then? That's the question that is just now agitating the minds of the revenue reformers, and, judging from present indications, it is assumed that the tariff bill is doomed for this session. At the caucus Saturday night the friends of tariff reform were somewhat depressed over the prospects for the considera-tion of the tariff bill. It has been quietly passed along the line that the only way in which the tariff bill can be defeated is by the talking-to-death process, and the opponents of the measure are already preparing themselves for the fight. The plan of operation, as out-lined, is for the republicans to offer their bill as a substitute for the Mills measure. Of course, they expect their proposition to be voted down. After that question has been settled they will call for the reading of the bill by paragraphs, and for each of the paragraphs they will have some sort of an amendment to offer, which will necessitive a year and naw yets. By this reliev cessitate a yea and nay vote. By this policy they claim that it will be impossible for the democrats to pass the bill before the meeting of the convention in St. Louis in June, and therefore the democracy will be placed in an awkward position on the leading issue of the campaign. The republicans claim that such a course will redound to their credit, because they will show the country, the workingmen and manufacturers, that, although a minority, they worked earnestly to have the tariff revised on protection principles, and therefore they are not responsible for the passage of a free-trade

Another proposition that is likely to cause a dead lock in the house, is the amended bond purchase bill, passed by the senate. It is un-derstood that the administration is opposed to the Beck silver amendment, and a strong effort will be made in the house to have the Beck amendment killed, but the silver men say the bond purchase bill can only pass in its nt shape, and that the presider veto it, however much he may dislike the bill. The people of the country are not in favor of the scheme to contract the circulating medium, and the Beck amendment prevents that.

When a recess was taken at 10:15 tonight, until 11:45 tomorrow, both sides were as firm as ever, and it is evident the deadlock will last some days yet.

The adulterated lard bill will come up for consideration by the committee on agriculture on the 25th, and there is now no doubt but that it will be defeated in the committee room Mr. Hatch, chairman of the committee, is said to have acknowledged that he has no hopes of carrying the bill through his committee.

Mr. Clements today introduced petitions from the merchants, capitalists and business men of Atlanta, and from the colored citizens of Atlanta, praying congress for an appropriation in aid of the national colored exposition. The petition was accompanied by a resolution of the Atlanta chamber of commerce indorsing the exposition, a resolution from the city council commending it, two editorial articles from THE CONSTITUTION and one from the Capitol indorsing it, a resolution passed by the Driving club tendering its grounds, also a resolution adopted by the Piedont exposition company tendering the use of its buildings. This information has come in rather late, but it is highly probable that it will have the desired effect upon the appropriation nittee. If the matter is now pushed, a favorable report can be secured from the com

A Bill to Be Reported Declaring Large

A Bill to Be Reported Declaring Large Tracts Fofeited.

Washington, April 9.—The house commitate on public lands has instructed Chairman Holman to report the bill declaring the forfeiture of all unearned railroad land grants opposite those sections of roads not completed in the time mentioned in the granting aets. Four bills have already been reported by the committee declaring forfeitures in cases of the Hastings and Dakota. Ontonagon and State Line, Southern Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads. The bill agreed upon today is intended to cover all unearned railroad land grants not included in those measures and the committees estimate that the land recovered under all the bills will amount to fifty million acres. Grants of lands made under the eleven acts are proposed to be forfited by the general bill, as follows: To Florida and Alabama, in 1856; to Alabama, in 1856; to Wisconson, in 1856; to Wisconsin, in 1856; to Misnesota, in 1856; to Wisconsin, in 1856; to Misnesota, in 1856; to Misnesota, in 1856; to Misnesota and Iowa, in 1865; to Iowa, in 1864; to Wisconsin in 1864; to the Central Pacific railroad of California, in 1865. The bill confirms the rights of actual settlers and innocent purchasers of forfeited lands.

New York at the St. Louis Convention.

New York, April 9.—At a meeting of the Tammany committee of twenty-five today it was announced that about 1,200 Tammanyites would probably attend the St. Louis convention. At a meeting of the sub-committee of the county democracy it was stated that 1,000 followers of that organization had announced their intention of attanding the convention.

ROSCOE CONKLING DYING. A Surgical Operation Performed—His Meeting With Ed Stokes.

New York, April 9.—Roscoe Conkling's condition changed for the worse last night and a consultation of physicians today determined that what began as an inflammation of the ear, superinduced by his exposure during the recent blizzard, has extended to the brain. An operation was determined upon and as no time could be lost, it was performed this evening. The temporal bone was removed and a secre-tion of matter found and drained off. The operation was very favorable and gives the patient a chance for recovery. He remained unconscious throughout the operation.

The patient was under the influence of ether, but he rolled and tossed so that it was only with difficulty that the operation was performed. Dr. Barkes said that while the recovery of his patient is not assured, he stands a much better chance that before.

At 12:15 his condition was unchanged. He insists on rising and walking about the room, but does so in delirium, as he has not regained consciousness. He sent for Edward S. Stokes, and when he arrived, Mr. Conkling said to him:

him:
"Ed, it is no use. I am gone. I have fought against this for some time. I can't stand it any longer."
Mr. Stokes, in going out, saw Dr. Sands at the door. He asked the doctor if Mr. Conkling had any chance. Dr. Sands said:
"He may, live forty-eight hours, but I doubt it."

Dr. Anderson is now, 1:15 a. m., the only physican in the house. THE DEPENDENT PENSION BILL.

Amendments Adopted in Committee by Strict Party Vote.

Amendments Adopted in Committee by a Strict Party Vote.

Washington, April 9.—The house committee on invalid pensions, this morning took final action upon the senate bill knewn as the dependent pension bill. Some verbal amendments were made to the first section, relating to claims of dependent parents, but none of them materially changed the effect of the section.

A substitute was adopted for the second section, which is the principal section of the bill. The substitute provides a pension for all persons who have served in the military or naval service of the United States for any period, and who have been honorably discharged, and who are now, or who may hereafter be suffering from mental or physical disability, not the result of their own vicious habits, which totally disabled them from the performance of manual labor, at the rate permonth of one cent for every day's war service. It further provides the same pension for all persons who are sixty-two years of age for and during their natural lives.

Section 3 was amended so as to provide that when the widow of any person who had served in the war and been honorably discharged is in a condition of dependence, or is suffering from any disability recognized by the general pension laws, or is sixty-two years of age, she shall be placed upon the pension roll at the rate per month of one cent for every day's war service of her husband.

The fourth section was amended so as to make attorney's fee for claims filed under the service of her husband.

The fourth section was amended so as to make attorney's fee for claims filed under the bill $5, instead of $10.

The element of dependency placed in the Grand Army bill by the senate was eliminated, so that all soldiers are to be pensioned for their services equally, without regard to their financial condition, and according to the per diem idea.

dea, The amendments were adopted by a strict The amendments were adopted by a strict party vote, the republicans favoring the provisions of the senate bill, so that the amended bill may be regarded as embodying a democratic nolicy in the matter of pension legislation. During consideration of the bill, Mr. Sawyer, of New York, offered an amendment to the substitute for the second section, providing that soldiers who are in destitute circumstances and totally disabled, shall be given a pension of twelve dollars a month.

Mr. Morril, of Kansas, offered a general per diem pension bill as a substitute for the amended bill. Both these amendments were defeated by a party vote.

Pistols Play a Part.

Chicago, Ill., April 9.—At 7 o'ciock tonight a "Q" engine manned by new men was approaching the city over the Western Indiana tracks from the southwest. At 47th street a crowd threw stones through the cab window, when Charles Sommers, one of the crew, drew a revolver, and firing it at the crowd, struck James Boylan, a foundryman, in the knee. At 40th street the engine met the same repulsion from another crowd, and Somsame repulsion from another crowd, and Sommers again brought his pistol into use. He shot Mike Welch, a Wabash engineer, in the groin, wounding him fatally. An alarm having been given to the police, the engine was intercepted and Sommers placed under arrest.

West Point Appropriation Bill. West Point Appropriation Bill.

Washnotton, April 9.—The West Point appropriation bill was reported from the senate committee on appropriations without any change in the amount ($315,000) appropriated by the bill as it came from the house. The senate committee took into consideration the proposition to build a new academic building for $490,000 and a new gymnasium for $97,000, and appeared to be in favor of them, but in view of the charge of extravagance likely to be brought against the committee, it concluded not to make the additions proposed to the bill.

Cross and White in Raleigh

THEY HAVE NOT LOST THEIR RELIGION. But Declare That Their Hearts Are in the Right Place—An Interesting Chap-ter-Other Criminal News.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 9.-[Special.]-This morning at 8 o'clock Charles E. Cross and Samuel C. White, the absconding president and cashier of the State National bank, of this city. arrived here in custody of Chief of Police Heartt and Deputy Rogers. The party were driven quietly to the jail. Very few people were on the lookout, as it had been announced that Crors and White would not arrive until

On their arrival at the jail the prisoners were locked up. They were permitted to see a few relatives. Three brothers-in-law of White and two of his church friends called. To one of the latter White said that amidst all his troubles he had not lost his religion. He was told that a week ago his Sunday school class of young ladies had prayed for him. White cried a good deal this morning. This afternoon both men were greatly affected. Both look your way had been dear. Both look worn out and broken down. White emarked that the plundered bank ought, with proper management in closing it up, pay from seventy to ninety cents on the dollar.

Cross declares that the bank was broke all to pieces when he went in as president two years ago, and that the people in the bank knew it to be so. He said further that when the trial came off, and he went on the stand as witness, all this would be revealed, and a great deal more. He asserted that some peo-ple here are sorry to see him and White back n Raleigh. He declared that he and White would prove their assertions by the books of the bank.

There was no trouble whatever in bringing the prisoners here. They did not require handcuffs. There was talk of a compromise by which they agreed to return. This was all wrongly stated. They returned just as if extradited, to be tried upon the three indictments for forgery found against them by the grand jury of Wake coufity, which were filed with the de-partment of state at Washington. They merely saved the trouble of extradition. That was

The bond of each was fixed by Judge Shipp, of Wake superior court, at fifteen thousand doilars. Efforts were made yesterday to secure the requisite ball, but were unavailing.

They were renewed today, but were equally futile, and the prospect is that both men will be in is that both men will be in jail until the July term of the criminal court, to which they have been remanded. Some persons express a belief that they can't be convicted of forgery, but the majority say the evidence is direct and overwhelming, and their conviction a certainty. No reporters were admitted to see the prisoners. Counsel for the latter said that they had no statements to make, and would make more until the trial make, and would make none until the trial was held. Efforts are being made to excite sympathy for them, but avail very little. Some of their friends says that a stay in jail will be better for them in this respect than if they were given liberty on bail. The United States district attorney who went to Toronto after the prisoners, has not returned. He has in his pos as acting receiver of the bank, the twenty-five thousand dollars found on the persons of the

THE TERMINAL QUARREL.

The Rice-Libbey Party Makes a Reply to the Circular of the Directors.

New York, April 9.—Isaac L. Rice, speaking for himself and associates, dissects the circular which the present Terminal directors have issued to the stockholders with an unsparing hand, and insists that it is full of glaring in the interest of the New York and Western, while the truth is that only one of our committee has any interest in that property. The circular also speaks of the Terminal territory being intaced by the Georgia Central. No such invasion has occurred since the present owners of the Georgia Central get hold of it, but I was appointed from the Terminal board to harmonize the relations existing between that company's lines and the Georgia Central while I was a member of the Terminal directory, which I succeeded in doing, and rates were then advanced in the interest of the Terminal simply because we have never been willing to do so, but we have been repeatedly approached by several members of the present Terminal board to know on what terms the Georgia company could be bought, and we have always rejected such overtures. We bought the Georgia company for investment, and propose to keep it. In answer to the suggestion to the circular that we have any purpose of turning the Terminal over to any rival corporation, we insist that it is emphatically in that condition now. We claim that the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia is a vigorous rival, and it is notorious that the ruling spirits in that corporation dominate the policy of the Terminal drectors to intimate that complaints of the management are chargeable to their predecessors. At the last election there were only four changes made, Messrs. Swann, Moss, McGee and Hall being elected to succeed Messrs. Dow, Flagler, Christian and myself, and the new members only emphasized the powers that had previously existed, hence the board of this year is practically the same as last. The directors' circular claimed that would have been bad policy for the Richmond and Danville to borrow t The Rice-Libbey Party Makes a Reply to the Circular of the Directors.

Mr. Rice concluded by saying:
"This is only a meagre outline of what we shall have to say in support of our position when the proper time comes." PROCEEDINGS OF PARLIAMENT. Irish Members Object to the Payment of King Harman's Salary.

Harman's Salary.

London, April 9.—In the house of commons this evening, Sir James Ferguson, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, stated that a new loan amounting to $10,000,000 had been made by the Egyptian government. This loan, he said, would neither take precedence of nor have any effect on the loans previously made.

On motion that the house authorize the payment of the salary to King Harman, parliamentary under-secretary for Ireland, Justin McCarthy objected. He moved to adjourn debate on the question but nobody on the government benches took any notice of the motion.

Thomas Power O'Connor protested against the discouriesy shown Mr. McCarthy by occupants of the bench by their neglecting to rise, and studiously ignoring the objection of the Irish party to conceding a salary to King Harman.

W. H. Smith, government leader, replied that the course which Mr.McCarthy had taken was a brutal one. There was no reason why the payment of salary to King Harman should be refused.

A motion to adjourn debate was then put. It was defeated by a vote of 169 to 180.

On motion that the house assent to the payment of a salary to King Harman, Mr. O'Connor again rose. He declared that the nationalists were resolved to oppose the bill at O'Connor again rose. He declared that the nationalists were resolved to oppose the bill at every stage. The motion was carried by a vote of 184 to 109.

The house then went into committee on the budget resolutions.

Mr. Gladstone said he did not intend to examine into the details of the budget at this stage. He wanted to know what course the chancellor of the exchequer would take in event of the house not adopting the new taxes. He expressed himself as in favor of proposals affecting probate duties, and also of the principle of equalization of death duties. He commended the budget as a whole, but said that the proposed new taxation demanded close scrutiny.

Mr. Goschen thanked Mr. Gladstone for the complimentary part of his criticism. He up-held the budget scheme as a whole, and said he trusted the house would accept it.

Situation of Affairs.

Paris, April 9.—In the election yesterday to fill the vacancy in the chamber of deputies from the department of Dordogne, General Boulanger was chosen. He received 59,500 votes against 35,750 for M. The result was unexpected, and has increased the uneasiness of the conservatives, who declare that the Boulangist movement is a public danger, and urgent measures are demanded to check it.

The Bonapartists assert that the result in Dordogne proves that the country demands the dissolution of the chamber of deputies and a revision of the constitution.

Bismarck Quieting Down in Regard to the Proposed Nuprialr.

Berlin, April 9.—It is stated today that Prince Bismarck has abandoned his opposition to the marriage of Prince Alexander, of Battenburg, and Princess Victoria, having gained certain other concessions and that all differences between the emperor and Prince Bismarck are now settled.

The Neue Frie Presse of Vienna, revives the report that Crown Prince William is the chief opponent of his sister's marriage to Prince Alexander, and that Bismarck had acted in his behalf. The empres's journey was a triumphal progress.

The National Zeitung in an article on the crisis arising from the proposed marriage of Prince/Alexander and Princess Victoria, says:

A SHOTGUN

Creates Quite an Excitement on Peachtree Street.

A DIFFICULTY OVER A LITTLE DEBT. Mr. Henry Beermann Has a Difficulty With W. M. Land-A Serious

Trouble Stopped. A double-barreled shotgun and two or three mad men created quito an excitement on Decatur street at Peachtree about seven o'clock

The shotgun was in the hands of Mr. Henry

Beermann, and during the scene the muzzle was directed towards Mr. W. M. Land, the contractor at the Y. M. C. A. building. The gun was not fired, however. About seven o'clock Mr. Land entered Beer-mann and Silverman's tobacco store. Mr. Beer-mann was behind the counter, and, grabbing a mann was behind the counter, and, grabbing a shotgun, ordered the contractor out. The gun was a dangerous-looking weapon and Mr. Land walked out of the store, Mr. Beermann coming after him with the gun in his hand. The people about the corner caught on quick and began erowding around. Some of them used their influence to prevent a serious trouble, and succeeded finally in doing so. The scene, in which the gun took the most prominent part, was the result of a mising so. The scene, in which the gun took the most prominent part, was the result of a misunderstanding between Mr. Land and the tobacconist. It appears Mr. Land has become responsible for a bill at the store and failed to pay. The tobacconist became inpatient at the delay, and yesterday swore out a warrant for Mr. Land, charging him with larceny after trust—the nature of the transaction admitting of such a charge. Mr. Land was served with the warrant and became quite angry. He went to the tobacco store, but neither gentlemen was in. Later in the day, Mr. Beermann heard that Mr. Land had threatened him, and when the gentleman entered the store last night the gun came.

Mr. Land had threatened him, and when the gentleman entered the store last night the gun came.

But there are two sides to the story, and here they are in the language of the two parties:

MR. HARRY SILVERMAN'S STATEMENT.

"Mr. W. M. Land is a contractor at the Young Men's Christian association building, and Mr. Fontane is one of the laborers who worked there. Mr. Fontaine is one of our customers. About three months ago, Mr. Fontaine owed us a small bill, and when Mr. Land paid him off, Mr. Fontana asked him to hold back the amount due Beermann & Silver man and hand it to us. Mr. Fontana explained to me that Mr. Land did not hand in the amount. He was asked for it several times and invaribly stated that he would settle up "tomorrow." More time passed on but the particular "tomorrow" to which Mr. Land referred did not show up. Neither did the money with which he had been entrusted for us. Mr. Fontana was notified of Mr. Land's very treacherous memory in regard to the payment of the bill—and on the idea that Mr. Land had had ample time to turn over the money, swore out a warrant against Land this morning charging him with larceny after trust. Mr. Land heard of this and came to our place this afternoon during our absence in an indignant mood. When Mr. Beermann and I came in, our clerk said:

"Mr. Land has been here, Mr. Silverman. He is very mad and says that he intends to fix you."

He is very mad and says that he intends to fix you."

Upon this Mr. Beermann and I went up to Land's place of business and he said:

"I understand that there is a warrant against me for larceny after trust?"

"I replied:

"There is, but the paper has not been legally served upon you, and will not be so served if you will pay that bill."

"He declined to pay it and we went back to our place. Later we heard that Mr. Laud had stated on the street that he intended to get a pistol at Clark's hardware store and kill me. When Mr. Beermann heard this he got his double-barreled shotgun and placed it behind the counter. About seven o'clock tonight Mr. Land appeared at the door and started in. Mr. Beermann grabbed the gun and said:

said:
"Get out of here or I'll hurt you!"
Land wanted to talk, but Beermann said:
"No, sir; get out of my store!"
And when Land saw the gun he got out in pretty short order, That's about all I know about it. Yes, I think now that the warrant against Mr. Land will be pressed."

MR. LAND'S STATEMENT. "The whole thing grows out of a misunder-standing," said Mr. Land last night, "You see it was this way: I am superintendent of the construction of the new Y. M. C. A. building, Some time ago, about sixty days I should think, an Italian named Michael Fonshould think, an Italian named Michael Fontana who works for me drew an order on me for 88.50, in favor of Henry Silverman, to pay a bill he owed. That week I paid, at the Italian's request, only $5 of the amount, he claiming that he could not well afford to have it all taken out of his wages at once. That left $3.50 due, and I have tried a half a dozen-yes, a dozen-occasions to pay that, but every: time I have gone to the store Silverman has been out. "Well, I tried to see him and pay it, but couldn't. Judge of my surprise today when I was informed that a warrant charging me with larceny after trust had been sworn out before Judge Tanner. I have lived here ten years and this is the first time anything of this kind has happened to me. Judge Tanner knew, of course, that I was all right, and my word that I would appear at the time specified was all that was necessary. But I was mad. The idea of such a charge being made against me naturally riled me. Then Mr. Parrott, my employer, who had been summoned as a witness, sent for me to see what it was all about. When I left him I was madder still, but I realized that the affair was trifling and due to a misunderstanding, so I set out to see if it couldn't be rectified. At Beermann and Silverman's corner, I met the Italian Fontana. To him I said that the whole thing was due to a misunderstanding and suggested that we go in and settle the debt. He and I started in the door, I had only gone a few steps, when Henry Beermann, who was standing behind the counter, pushed the muzzle of a double-barreled gun toward me and said:
"Damn you, get out of here, and get out quick."

The communication was handed to the president this morning by Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, who made a special call at the white house for that purpose. The cardinal arrived in this city on Saturday on an especial visit, and today he visited the executive mansion and surprised the president by the presentation of the autograph communication of the pope. The epistle was in Latin. The contents were read and translated by the cardinal for the president, and in it the pope speaks of the great distinction extended from the ruler of a free people, a gift which he had never expected to be sent film, and expresses appreciation of the appropriateness of the volume as presented. try of some of the leading enthusiasts to be present.

There is every reason to believe, from present indications, that Atlanta will put a strong amateur club in the league. A few gentlemen are enthusiastic in the matter, and if they meet with anything like proper encouragement the club will be an assured fact. What is needed is money. If fifteen or twenty more of the $10 shares are taken the management will feel warranted in going ahead, having the grounds fixed up and signing players.

In writing concerning the league President Bailey says: "We will engage all amateur home talent. Have adopted Spalding's ball and they are to give each club three dozen balls free and sell others as wanted at $15 per dozen.

All the arrangements for the bicycle races next Monday and Tuesday have been completed, and the club feels assured of a success greater than originally expected.

Communications are daily received from wheelmen through the south promising their attendance. Large numbers of entries have been made, so that each race promises to have from six to ten starters.

The local wheelmen are in constant training at the track in Piedmont park, and every morning and evening sees a bunch of six or eight aspirants for prizes and glory speeding around the track at a breakneck pace. These races will undoubtedly be the finest and closest contested ever witnessed in the south, and Atlanta will turn out en masse to see them. It will, of course, be understood that these races are as much for the entertainment of the ladies as for the gentlemen, and it is hoped that the fair sex will be well represented. The grounds will be in the charge of a corps of police detailed for the purpose, and gambling and pool selling will be strictly prohibited. The parade next Friday, the 13th, will bring out every wheelman in the city who can possibly spare an hour or two from his business, and it is confidently expected there will be as many as seventy-five riders in line, a number of whom will be the smaller boys. For these a lieutenant will be selected from their own number.

For these a lieutenant will be selected from their own number.

Those who have wheels and are unable to attend should loan them to those riders who, equally unfortunate, can ride, but have no mounts of their own. The boys will meet in front of the postoffice at 3 o'clock, and the start will be made as soon afterwards as possible.

The line of march will be as follows: From the postoffice down Marietta to Broad, thence to Mitchell, thence to Whitehall, thence to Alabama, thence to Pryor, thence to Hunter, thence to Loyd, theace to Decatur, thence to Pryor, thence to Pachtree, thence to Marietta, thence to postoffice to disband.

mission of Dakota-Mr. Oates Gives Reasons for the Fight in the House.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The demand for the egular order from Mr. Reed, of Maine, opened he sixth day's contest over the direct tax bill, when the house met this morning at 11:45 in continuation of the session of Wednesday last. The speaker stated the regular order to be a vote upon the motion submitted by Mr. E. B. Taylor, of Ohio, that the house go into committee of the whole upon the direct tax bill.

Thereupon, Mr. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, and Mr. Weaver, of Iowa, made dilatory motions, and the first roll call of the calendar day was proceeded with.

Until 2:30, the clerk continued to call the ontil 2:30, the cierk continued to can the roll upon various dilatory motions submitted. At that hour the house found itself without a quorum, and Mr. Weaver moved an adjournment. Some interest was shown in this vote, as it would develop the strength of the opposition to the measure and disclose whether there was any sign of weakening on the other side of the controversy. The motion was defeated—yeas, 151;

nays, 89.
There being practically no change in relative strength, a call of the house was then or-

Then followed hours of absolute stagnation of all business of any character. Even the familiar voice of the reading clerk was silent, and the house proceeded with proper diligence to do nothing. to do nothing.

About six o'clock Mr. Oates asked unanimous consent to have a resolution read for information, but he was promptly met with objections from the republican side.

Following is the text of the resolution:
Whereas, it is alleged by persons of venedity that there are large numbers of attorneys, lobbyists, claim agents and state agents, who are using every means within their power to secure the passage of sensite bill 139, which is now under consideration in this house; and whereas it is alleged that millions of money, which would be appropriated by this bill, if it should become law, will, under the existing contract, pass into the hands of said lawyers, lobbyists, claim agents and saide agents, therefore, Resolved, That a committee consisting of seven ists, claim agents and state agents; therefore, Resolved. That a committee consisting of soven members of the house be appointed by the speaker, whose duties it shall be to investigate said allegations, and ascertain and report to the house within thirty days what contracts or agreements may exist between any attorneys, lobbyists, claim agents or state agents and beneficiaries under the aforesaid bill, and that such committee have power to send for persons and paupers, and administer ouths; and that further ensideration of the bill with its existing status be postponed until such committee report.

Subsequently Mr. Wheeler asked consent to Subsequently Mr. Wheeler asked consent to offer a resolution for the appointment of a committee to ascertain what amount of the sum proposed to be paid out will inure to the benefit of the people, and how much is to be paid to claim agents. Objection was made.

At 7:30 the sergeant-at-arms appeared and reported that of twenty-five members absent without leave, twenty were out of the city, and the other five could not be found. He was directed to continue his search.

At a few minutes before 9 o'clock, further proceedings under call were dispensed with, and Mr. T. J. Campbell, of New York, moved as an amendment to two pending motions for as an amendment to two pending motions for a short recess, that the house take a recess a short recess, that the house take a recess until 11:45 tomorrow morning.

In order to prevent a vote being taken on this proposition, Mr. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, revived the tactics he had resorted to a few days ago, and moved that Mr. McKenney, of New Hampshire, be excused from voting. Mr. Burrows objected on the point of order that it was not competent for one member to move that another be excused.

Mr. Dibbie contended that the privilege of a member to be excused was defensive in its nature and could not be in order unless the same process was proceeding against the member or to compet him to vote.

The speaker pro tem (Hatch of Missouri) said he had/noflesitancy in deciding the point of order which had so recently been decided by Speaker Carlisle.

Mr. E. B. Taylor, of Ohio, appealed from the decision, pending which Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, moved to adjourn.

Mr. Weaver, of Texas, moved that when the house adjourn it be to meet Wednesday next, and Mr. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, that when it adjourn it be till Thursday.

that the time of the house could be frittered away, but at this point he was cut short in his question by shouts of "louder," which continued for several minutes, every pause in the uproar being taken advantage of by Mr. Symes with his persistent inquiry, "Why is it that you can fritter away the time of the house?"

He was not permitted to conclude his question in page but shows eights of leachts. He was not permitted to conclude his question in peace, but above shouts of laughter and "louder," his voice was heard to demand why the time should be fretted away in an attempt to excuse members from voting, when there was no rule of the house requiring him to do so. At 10:15, while dilatory motions were piled

At 10:15, while dilatory motions were piled up one on another in great variety, Mr. E. B. Taylor asked unwilmons consentin the interest of good nature and good health that the house take a recess until 11:45 tomorrow.

The speaker pro tem put the request and after a short panse declared it granted, bringing down his gavel just as Mr. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, sprang to his feet with an objection, which came one second too late.

Recess was therefore taken.

A conference report on the house joint resolution for the purchase of lands necessary for locks and dams in the Cumberlaud river was presented and agreed to.

Mr. Morrill gave notice that he would, on Wednesday next, address the senate on the president's annual message, and Mr. Coke gave a like notice for Thursday.

Among the bills introduced and referred were the following:

[This bill revives and re-enacts those sections of the act of 1861, imposing a direct tax of $20,.00,000, and provides for the collection of all unpaid balances with five per cent interest thereon, the states to have the privilege of assuming their quotas, less 15 per cent deduction. Otherwise the tax is to be collected from land of individuals, as provided in the original act.]

The bill to authorize the sale to aliens of certain mineral lands was taken up for consideration, and Mr. Faulkner, a member of the committee on mines and mining, from which the bill had been reported, spoke in opposition to it. He moved an amendment providing that where mining claims which have been patiented are acquired by partnership, a majority of partners and of trustees or directors, shall be citizens of the United States. He was opposed to the bill, however, even with that amendment attached to it.

Discussion having closed, the questior was taken on Mr. Faulkner's amendment, and the vote was announced as yeas 20, nays 17.

No quorum having voted, the roll was called and forty-six senators answered to their names.

Without any further vote on the bill or amendment, the bill was laid aside, and "unfinished business" was taken up, being the bill to provide for the admission of the state of Dakota into the union, and for the organization of the territory of Lincoln.

The substitute reported from the committee on territories to the original bill, establishes the boundaries of the proposed state, and designates the remaining portions of the present territory as the territory of North Dakota, (not Lincoln) with Bismarck as the capital.

Mr. Platt, chairman of the committee on territories, said that the bill was one of four wisolihad been reported by the committee on territories for the admission of new states. It provided for the admission of the southern part of Dakota under the constitution already territories for the admission of new states. It provided for the admission of the southern part of Dakota under the constitution already formed. Three hills were act for the territories of Washington, Montana and the northern portion of Dakota. Suggestions, he said, had been made against the use of the names of North Dakota and South Dakota. The conditions were such that the name of Dakota could not be taken away from either portion of the territory without injustice and without doing violence to the feelings and wishes of, he believed, every inhabitant in the territory. To give some other name than Dakota to a portion of the territory would be something like the authorities of a town going into a family and insisting on giving to its members other names than those they had received from their parents. It would be as unjust as to attempt to change the name of North Carolina or South Carolina. The proposed state of South Dakota had a population of 490,000. He thought that they had a right to be admitted as a state in time to participate in the next presidential election. The present territory, Mr. Platt said, was too large for one state. It was 430 miles long from north to south, and 400 miles wide from east to west. It was very much larger than England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales; and, aside from its non-commercial qualities, capable of sustaining as large a population. land, Scotland and Wales; and, aside from its non-commercial qualities, capable of sustaining as large a population. The area of these countries amounted to 122,000 square miles; that of Dakota to 149,000. It was as large, practically, as the states of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Virginia combined; as large as all New England, New York and New Jersey; larger than Ohio, Indiana and Illinois combined. The proposed state of South Dakota would be 77,000 square miles, and that was certainly large enough for an agricultural state. As to the suggestion made at the last session that the cutting up of territories into numerous states would convert territories into numerous states would convert the senate into a mob, he replied that it was petter that the senate should be so enlarged better that the senate should be so enlarged as to represent the popular will, and to feel the popular pulse than that a state should be admitted so large as to have an abnormally large representation in the house of representatives.

Mr. Butler obtained the floor and the bill went over till tomorrow.

A message from the president relative to the purchase of lands in Florida on which to locate tile Seminole Indians was presented and referred to the committee on Indian affairs.

After executive session the senate adjourned.

CAUSE OF THE DEADLOCK. Mr. Oates Makes a Statement About the Diffi

Washington, April 9.—Mr. Oates, who has taken the leading part in the fight against the direct tax bill, makes the following statement of the reasons which influence the opponents of the bill, and their conduct in opposing its

of the reasons which influence the opponents of the bill, and their conduct in opposing its consideration:

"First, the action of the committee on rules on Monday last, in presenting to the house resolutions assigning days for the consideration of bills reported from committees, in which it required that senate bill 139, (the direct tax) should be considered and disposed of before any other measure reported by the judiciary committee should receive consideration, was unprecedented. In no other instance was such action ever taken by the committee on rules, and while I do not like to question the motive of anyone, yet this action was so extraordinary as to induce the belief on the minds of many persons opposed to the bill that there was a fixed purpose in thus placing it in front of all other business with the view of forcing its passage. The bill is of republican origin, and is believed to be the pioneer of many others, constituting a scheme to revive old war claims and thereby deplete the treasury of its surplus; and to diminish pro rato the force of the otherwise unanswerable argument which that surplus presents in favor of a reduction of tariff duties and other war taxes, which are at this time so unnecessarily burdensome to the people and detrimental to the general welfare.

"Second, we deny that congress has any power or right to appropriate money from the treasury for distribution among the states and territories. Such a thing has never been done, and there is no precedent for it in the whole history of congressional legislation. The only and there is no precedent for it in the whole history of congressional legislation. The only time it was ever attempted was in 1836, and it was then abandoned as unconstitutional; and recourse had to the loan act of that date.

"3. The passage of this bill would be tantamount to the legislative declaration that there is no limit or constitutional inhibition on congress in the matter of the appropriation of public money; that the power of congress is unlimited and discretionary. It would be a usurpation tending to sap the foundation of the republic, and violative of the fundamental principles of the depresentation are the confidence of the depresentation of the republic of the depresentation are the confidence of the depresentation and the confidence of the depresentation that there is no limit or constitution of the depresentation that there is no limit or constitution of the depresentation that there is no limit or constitution of the depresentation of the depresentation of the confidence of the depresentation of the depresentatio the republic, and violative of the fundamental principles of the democratic party.

"4. If congress had the right, which advocates of the bill assert, to reimburse and repay the states and people money lawfully collected in the way of taxation, it necessarily implies the right to levy and collect taxes in either of the forms afforded by the constitution for the purpose of raising finery with which to make such reimbursement or repayment—a doctrine both absurd and dangerous.

"5. The bill is neither equitable nor just to those who actually paid out taxes, because it provides for the distribution of money to the states and territories equal to the whole amount collected in each regardless of the shifting of population during the last twenty-seven years.

"6. This bill has provoked an agitation in favor of refunding the cotton tax, but no bill has been brought forward and pressed for that purpose. I gave notice, which I now recall, that if this bill is to be passed, I will at the proper time offer that amendment. We could at any time since the consideration of this bill began, have allowed it to proceed to the point in committee of the whole when we might have offered any amendment we saw proper; but our oppesition to the bill is such that no amendment which can be adopted, except it be to strike out the enacting clause, can make it acceptable to us. This bill is not before the house according to its rules and in the usual course of procedure. It has not been reached in its order on the calendar, but has, by an unusual report from the committee on rules, been placed before all other business and held there to the exclusion of all other business. In a matter involving such vital principles of constitutional government as this bill involves, and in which the people are tenfold more deeply interested than in the distribution among the states of any amount of money from the federal treasury, we feel that it is our duty, though in the minority, to resort to every legislative means which the house allows."

LOVE IN THE BUSHES

A Romantic Marriage in Floyd County.

The Mormons at Work in Warren County-A Warning to the Saints-Count-ing up Drinks.

The blackberry crop is safe at least.

The Rome Tribune, which is sentimental as well as practical, tells of a romantic marriage which is the sensation of the day in Floyd. A prayer meeting was held about three miles from the city on the Kingston road. Among from the city on the Kingston road. Among those who attended was a handsome young man and a blushing young lady. They met just before the door of the house, and saw that the best of chances was offered to consummate a union they had long desired. The minister was called, and stepping into a pine thicket near by, the marriage ceremony was

The young people were Thomas Langham and Miss Eva Shaw, and they were married by Rev. James Arnold. The irate father of the bride refuses to be comforted.

An eighteen-year-old youth named Phelps, in Taliaferro county, has made the thirty-five-year-old widow of the late J. H. Mitchell his wife. Thus he secures experience as well as ren county. The Warrenton Clipper says that on Sunday last —Mr. G. W. Battle and his sister, Mrs. Amanda Ba-Mr. G. W. Battle and his sister, Mrs. Amanda Baker, were baptized in the creek near the Battle house at 10 o'clock. This is a slam on our cfitzens and a disgrace to our part of the county to have such conduct carried on around here. For such fellows as this to come around disturbing the peace of the good citizens and leading off those who have nobetter judgment than to be led by grand rascals, is just too much for us to take. We are simply astounded at Mr. Battle. We are thunderstruck to think a man of his standing and judgment would take such an outrageous start as that. We are worn out with these fel ows and we don't think they will wet many more people in Warren county water.

Refering to these conversions, the Sparta

Refering to these conversions, the Sparta Ishmaelite drops the free trade poker long enough to say:

If this so called church of Jesus Christ of latter-day saints is, as we believe a myth, and not a verit able revelation from the upper world, as it is claimed to be by Joseph Smith and his coadjutors, Oliver Cowdery, why do not our divines labor diligently through the pulpit and the press to expose the here ary, and our statesman by proper legislation, to crush it now, ere it becomes too great a power to be uprooted. We fear though, that by its insidous march, it has already gotten such a hold on this continent at least, that it will never be end cated. There is no doubt but that the indirect recognizin of this sect, by little or no attempt being made by the Christians church to lay open the rottenness of it, has already materially added to the growing inidelity that had manifested itself several centu-men's hunting park on Flint river, near Rey-nolds, and stock it with game. It will be so nolds, and second English, you know. Valdosta has a surplus of three thousand dollars in the city treasury, which the authorities do not know what to do with. A crying evil is that to which the Rome Clipper calls attention, when it says: There are too many children, both white and colored, roaming about our streets, ever to make good and useful citizens. It has been truly said that idieness is sure to prove a planting time for evil thoughts and wicked purposes, as well as laying the foundation for shiftlessness and continuous erty. Doubtless they should be placed in so seful occupation. Let parents and the authoris

As a sign of improvement, the following is copied from the Sparta Ishmaelite.

We are pleased to see so many of our boys assert their ind pendence and show to the world that they are not ashamed to engage in any sort of work, however laborious that is honest and respeciable. The rock quarry management is now offering in-ducements in the prices it is paying for labor, which we are proud to see our young men accepting. Sick to it boys, it is far better t be employed if you bare y earned your board, than to be idle, even if you were the sons of million aires.

Fort Valley Mirror: It requires something more than a facility in the use of emphatic words to write an entertaining or an instructive editorial. It takes brains. This explains why so many editorials in our daily and weekly papers are so utterly loud and utterly foolish. An editorial without a good idea in it is a shell without a kernel, a merely tiresome humbug.

The best tobacco lands to the union are here, and as soon as the capitalists now experimenting in Florida are satisfied that the weed can be grown profitably (and they will be) nothing can stop the boom. The Rome Tribune, which is sentimental as well as practical, tells of a romantic marriage which is the sensation of the day in Floyd. A prayer meeting was held about three miles from the city on the Kingston road. Among those who attended was a handsome young man and a blushing young lady. They met just before the door of the house, and saw that the best of chances was offered to consummate a union they had long desired. The minister was called, and stepping into a pino pino thicket near by, the marriage ceremony was performed.

The young people were Thomas Langham and Miss Eva Shaw, and they were married by Rev. James Arnold. The irate father of the bride refuses to be comforted.

"Ten drinks a day would be 70 drinks a week, or 2,6:0 drinks in a year. In twenty years that would give the enormous number of 72,8:0 drinks. Now, the average drink taken in this country is said to be 60 to a gallon. Then divide this 72,8:0 by 60, and you will find that you have consumed 1,213 and a faction gallons. Now, there are supposed to be, on the average, 3:6 gallons to a barrel. Divide 1,213 by 36, and you find that you have drunk just about 35 barrels of the stuff."

Recent attempts, having been made to drag the Farmers' Alliance into politics, the "Alliance Advocate," the Georgia organ of the order, says: Some newspapers are disrosed to encourage alliance men to go into politics, and they are laying the very foundation for the order to be wrecked and tobled of its usefulness when they do so. We take issue with our respected contemporary, the Talbot-ton New Era, which says:

"It is perfectly evident to all who have watched the progress of the Farmers' Alliance that it was originally organized for the purpose of benefitting those engaged in agriculture. This is a laudable purpose, and the New Era has previously advocated it, deserves to be highly commended. The recognized strength of this order is now beginning to engage the attention of state politicians; and Macbeth displayed no more consternation and fear when the ghost of Banquo rose telere him than do the politicians show when questioned as to the probable attitude of the alliance men in regard to politics. That the alliance will soon be able to control the politics of ance will soon be able to control the politics of Georgia is now evident. Unless some unforseen accident should impede its remarkable progress, its state membership will very soon constitute a majority of the democrats in the state, and then it will be the duty of the alliance to become to some extent, a political organization. The politics of Georgia demands the attention of the good people of this state, and if the Farmers' Alliance should find treat in a receiving the progression. itself in a position to reconstruct the politics of the state, it will be derelict in its duty to the public at large, should it decline to use its power."

In the irst place, the order is non-sectarian and non-partisan. Its primary object is to tenefit its adherents morally, socially and financially. While it is the duty of every good citizen, whether a farmer in the alliance or out of it, to support men to office, it is not his duty to try to run the political affairs of the country no more than it is for all the fairs of the country no more than it is for all the mechanics to do the same thing. The political field is about the poorest crop a farmer ever cultivated, and yields no substantial returns whatever. When a farmer leaves his farm to gallop around over the country to talk politics, the sheriff is in a fair way to advertise his farm for sale at a reduced price. We do not say that they should not take a lively interest in public affairs, but when they put candidates in the field and, pledge, themselves to yets saidfuly for the field and pledge themselves to vote solidly for them, then they are fixing to knock their order as them, then they are fixing to knock their order as high as Gilderoy's kite. Here is an illustration: Not many years ago the grange movement swept the country like a cyclone. Old broken down political hacks got into the order and used it to prize themselves into high places. Some into the legislature, some into the governor's chair and others into congress, and where did the grange movement go? It went to the devil at lightning speed and there is yo a corporal's sured left.

ning speed and there is not a corporal's guard lef of them. The farmers were the ones who suffered. The politicians got all they wanted. They were not identified with the working man and had no sympathies in common with him. Now let them learn a valuable lesson from the past experience. Alliance men who have the capacity have as much right to ask for an office as anybody else, but they should a peal to the public at large and not to the alliance in particular. But it would be better for the order if leaders would eschew politics altogether A crying evil is that to which the Rome Clipper calls attention, when it says;
There are too many children, both white and colored, roaming about our streets, ever to make good and useful citizens. It has been truly said that idleness is sure to prove a planting time for evil thoughts and wicked purposes, as well as laying the foundation for shiftlessness and continuous poverty. Doubtless they should be placed in some useful occupation. Let parents and the authorities special to the public translation in the farmers in a material way. Our farmers are too poor as a class, to devote their energies to anything, except to the rehabilitation their lost fortunes and redeem their credit. There is another class we desire to warn farmers against. They are business men who got into the order for gain and nothing else. They profess to be great fined so farmers, and who have see to it. profess to be great friends of farmers, and who have already amassed colossal fortunes by selling goods at extortionate prices and loaning money at a ruinous rate of interest. They will drop in and essay to be leaders in the new move, when they care no more about its success than a black man in Africa. They are wolves in sheeps' clothing, and will devour somebody before they know it. Remember, and digest this note of warning.

WHICH IS THE MOTHER? A Sensational Case in Richmond

County. Two Women Quarrel Over the Ownership of a Child-One of the Women

Goes Crazy. Augusta, Ga., April 9.—[Special.]—There is a new complication in the famous baby case, which was reported from here a few weeks ago. It will be remembered that two negro women, Ida Atkinson and Della Jefferson had a dispute over the possession of a baby, and that Ordinary Walton was called on to decide the ownership of the child under habeas corpus proceedings. After several days of careful investigation, elaborate testimony and extended argument. Ordinary Walton awarded the baby to Ida Atkinson. When Della Jefferson surrendered the child, she did so with the remark: "Now you be good to this child, for you know its mine."

Today Della Jefferson has gone crazy, declares that her baby is dead and continually raves in an incoherent manner about the child. Ordinary Weston has issued a warrant for her, and she will next come before him to be tried for lunacy. Many take this new development as evidence that Della was the true mother, and that the loss of her child has crazed her.

CITATE OF GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—TO the Superior Court of Said County: The petition of the trustees of the Young Men's Christian association, of Atlanta, Georgia, a corporation under the laws of said state, composed of the following named individuals, to wit: James W. Your petitioner shows that the charter granted to it on said 29th day of July, 1855, contains a provision that your petitioner "is not to have power to encumber the whole, or any part, of the property held by it." This restriction goes beyond the terms of the donations and subscriptions out of which the fund arose, which your petitioner was created to hold and manage for the crection of a building for the Young Men's Christian association in Atlanta, as set forth in the petition for said charter.

Among the terms prescribed by the donors of said fund, is a provision that your petitioner shall not have power to mortgage, or encumber the building, which was contemplated by said donors, after said building should be paid for. Your petitioner says that the manifest intention of this language was to provide that, if necessary, a mortgage, or other encumbrance might be put on said building before it was paid for, in order to fush and pay for the building, which your petitioner has now parify completed, in accordance with the powers and duties imposed upon it, and which building is located on the corner of Pryor and Wheat streets, in the city of Atlanta, it will be necessary to borrow a sum not exceeding thirty thousand (830,000) dollars; and, for that purpose, to issue no and, for that purpose, to issue notes or bonds secured by mortgage, or deed of trust, upon said building.

Your petitioner prays that its said charter be amended by striking therefrom said restriction upon your petitioner's power to encumber its property, and by inserting in lien thereof the following:

"Said corporation shall have power—and it is hereby fully authorized at any time before its building on the southeast corner of Pryor and Wheat streets, in the city of Atlanta, is paid for, but not afterwards—to borrow such amount of money, not exceeding thirty thousand ($90,000) dollars, as shall be necessary to complete said building, and pay for the same, and for the purpose of borrowing said money, to issue motes or bonds in such denominations as to said corporation may seem proper, not be exceed in the aggregate the said sum of thirty thousand ($90,000) dollars, and at a rate of interest not to exceed seven per cent per annum, and with expense of collecting, including ten per cent for attorney's fees in case of suit; to execute such mortgage, or deed of trust, on said building and other property of the coporation as may be considered necessary, to secure the payment of said notes or bonds, and the interest thereon, with all said necessary expenses of collection including ten per cent for attorney's fees, in case of suit as aforesaid, provided that none of and bonds shall be issued, nor any loan effected, or mortgage, or deed of trust executed, unless the same shall be ordered, by a resolution bassed at the meeting of said corporation, at which at least fifteen members shall be present.

The Hog's Fat Men in a Stew. The investigation and discussion follow-ing the attempt of the "pure" lard manuturers to crush out a new and promising southern industry by imposing a tax on cotton seed oil have not panned out to the satlafaction of those disinterested patriots.

Indeed, the investigation, with its attendent exposures, is somewhat in the nature of a boomerang, and it is safe to say that if the manufacturers of "pure" lard were well out of the tangle into which their greed has led them, they would hesitate a long time before they ventured to attack a perfectly legitimate industry.

As our readers know the exposure of these manufacturers of so-called "pure" lard has been complete. The investigation which their frantic lobbying brought about has uncovered a great many facts that the "pure" lard manufacturers would prefer to

One fact stands out above all the rest, so far as the issue that has been made is concerned, namely, that refined cotton seed oil is a perfectly pure and healthy article of food. There have been no witnesses to deny this. The persons summoned in behalf of those who desire to cripple the cotton seed oil industry have testified almost to a man that they do not regard the oil deleterious as an article of food.

This is also the testimony of the experts who were examined. They all unite in saying that cotton seed oil is a perfectly healthy vegetable product. It has been proved that, In its highest form, it is fully the equal of olive oil, and it has also been proved that if any adulteration ensues from the mixture of lard with refined cotton seed oil, it is the oil that is adulterated. It has been demonstrated before the committee having the investigation in charge that cotton seed oil, although a comparatively new food product, is healthy and There is no temptation to adulterate it, for it is as cheap now as it could be made by adulteration. Another fact that has been brought out by the investigation has been charged by THE CONSTITUTION for many years, and that is that the so-called pure lard of commerce is not unfrequently made from cholera-sick hogs, from the offal of hogs, and from hogs that are smothered and die in transit. The testimony of pork-packers before the committee is clear on this point; and it shows, moreover, that cholera-sick hogs are not only stewed down for the fat they may happen to contain, but that they are cut up, salted down and shoved into the meat trade, principally in the south.

The exposures that have been made are certain to hurt the pork-packing business, and they ought to hurt it. It is a business that is not only full of fraud, but it is a continual threat to the life and health of the people of this country. It is charged that were recently 50,000 to 100,000 hogs sick with cholera, and there is no evidence to show that they were not stewed up into "pure" lard and sold for meat.

St. Louis Republican no doubt represents the views of all the disinterested patriots concerned in it, when it says that "the sooner all parties connected with the socalled 'pure lard' investigation drop out of view the better it will be for all these lines of trade." This is what THE CONSTITUTION said two months ago. The whole question which the manufacturers of hog's fat have raised belongs to the states, and it ought to be left there.

THE Cincinnati Commercial Gazete says that John Sherman will be a positive force in the republican nominating convention. All the same, he will miss 'Liza Pinkston.

The Unknown Quantity in French Politics Within less than a century France has been three times a republic. Her first experiments in that line were not very satisfactory, and her present venture, now some sixteen years old, does not promise to be Just now the republic is trembling between two evils-a new ministry and General Boulanger. In other words, she suffers the disadvantage of having a crowd of little men in office and one big man out of office. The evident disposition of the people to elect General Boulanger to the chamber of deputies is a dangerous sign. It is true that the general's enemies sneer at him. They call him "the god of the music halls," and compare him to the ring master in a circus, but all this simply means that the gallant soldier is rather theatrical, and fond of glare and glitter and applause. These charges will apply with equal truth to almost every great Frenchman. Danton, Mirabeau, LaFayette and the two Napoleons were fond of posing in the fierce white light of public notoriety. If they succeeded by employing theatrical sensations in public life, why should not Boulanger succeed?

The trouble is, that nobody knows exactly what there is in this mysterious man. He may be well fitted to sway the destinies of France, or on the other hand he may be a mere holiday soldier. It will take time to show his capacity or incapacity, but in the present state of affairs it is enough to know that the French are dissatisfied, and they look to Boulanger to set everything right. There is even talk of making him president, although the fact cannot be disguised that his aggressive policy would precipitate the try into a war with Germany.

Taking it for granted that all these things tional assembly, was made president. Then he induced the people to elect him for a term of ten years. In a year's time he submitted nestion whether he should assume the study. Let them but read and adopt this title of emperor to a popular vote and in this way mounted the throne. Throughout the whole business he was hampered by no scruples, as his coup d' etat very plainly showed. That Boulanger is sharp enough to profit by the lessons of this successful adventurer's career it is easy to believe. That he will be able to run through the entire programme with celat is doubtful. But all this remains to be seen.

THE burning question in the west is, Who did Cain marry?" This question was put to a Georgia evangelist, and he promptly replied: "Cain married his mother-in-law's daughter." How simple, and yet how true!

engaged in looking after the delegates from the south, which section, while devoid of interest in national elections on account of its solidity, yet plays a most important part in the conventions of both parties. Mr. Sherman realizes the fact that the three hundred votes of the south would be a very strong nucleus for his support in the Chicago convention, and as he deems himself the very man, who above all others, is entitled to this vote, he is seeing to it that his interests are being well cared for. He counts on the vote of the south for several reasons-first, because he thinks that his participation in the electoral frauds of 1876 gives him a prestige with the colored republicans which no other candidate can overcome; and again, because he believes that his bloody shirt policy has made its impress with the republican leaders of the south, who are hunting for a job and are not particular how they come. Mr. Sherman's emissaries have used these arguments to advantage in the south, and on this platform he has just captured the Mississippi convention, and will in all probability get the votes of most of the southern states. But what will this avail, Mr. Sherman? The New York Sun presents the question fairly, when it says: John Sherman may get what elation he can from the uncertain and yenal support of the representa-tives or misrepresentatives of the rotten boroughs of republicanism. There is no great probability of republicanism. There is no great proceeding that the man who insulted General Arthur will ever be selected as a presidential candidate by a party which must carry New York or be carried off the field. If, however, the madness which sometimes selzes upon political parties should make the republications of the proceeding the control of the control cans nominate John Sherman, the democrats ould be well pleased. They want nothing better than the opportunity to punish at the polls a man who was at once a principal and an accessory in the conspiracy through which Frand first became tri-

Your correspondent has been misinformed, for under no circumstances will I be a candidate for that position. In fact, if I mistake not, it is the desire of Fresident Cleveland that none of his officers attend the national convention as dele gates, as their presence there might be mis-construed. Mr. Brown introduced a resolution dividing the police work into three watches of eight hours each, and appointing a committee of two to divide the force and put the system in operation by the first of May.

"Now," said Mr. Brown, "I am thoroughly satisfied that no policeman can do his duty underthe present system. He is up from twelve to fifteen hours, and that is too much for any man. Let us give them their reliefs and I believe we will got better work and more work out of them."

"I had prepared a resolution of that kind myself," said Mr. Stephens, "and I shall support Mr. Brown's; I concur fully in what he has

said."

"And I am opposed to it," said Chairman English; "opposed to it for several reasons. In the first place, we haven't enough men on the force to divide it into three watches. As it is, the city hasn't enough police protection, and we need more men with the twelve-hour system. Then too, there are plenty good men who will take the job as it is for the pay."

"I should like to see the eight-hour system," said Mr. Martin; "but I think like Chairman English. I don't believe we have the men, and I offer as a substitute that a committee go before the council and ask for money for the system."

Messrs. Will Martin, Alex Maxwell, J. C. Julian, J. R. Lester, C. C. Nicholls, J. W. Dowley, L. I. Ryan, H. C. Ashford and F. K. Adams, saved but little from their roop s.

Messrs. Thomas, Edward and Howell Peeples, escaped with the clothes which they were. Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell lost heavily in furnitare and wearing apparel. Mr. J. J. Everson lost his pocketbook containing fifty dollars, but saved his other personal effects.

The largest loss is said to have been suctained by Mrs. M. J. Healey, a boarder, from Canada. She is reported to have lost a wardrobe of valuable apparel, $10,000 in fine jewelry and $4,000 in money and notes. Judge, Robert B. Trippe and wife lost heavily.

Mrs. Shelton Edwards lost almost everything. When she reached the street it suddenly occurred to her that there was $40 in gold in her bureau drawer. Two young men rushed in to get the money. It was not to be found. But while they were searching for it a gentleman whom Mrs. Edwards did not know walked up to her and handed her the missing money, which he had found while helping the people to get their things out of the burning building. The exact losses of Major Leyden could not be ascertained, but it is thought that a few thousand dollars will cover them. It is not known yet whether the Leyden house will be rebuilt of wood or brick. There is a good deal of gossip in reference to this matter, and many of the residents of Peachtree street express the loope that a wooden structure will not be erected.

Miss Emmie Leila Ridley celebrated her fifth birthday on yesterday afternoon, when she entertained sixty of her little triends from 4 to 6 o'clock, at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Ridley on Peachtree street. She received them in the front parlor, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The little lady wore an exquisite tea-gown, full train, cream colored Henrietta, on which were sprays of crimson roses. The front was crimwere sprays of crimson loses. The iront was crimson silk, with fill revers of point lace, with lace collar, crimson silk hose and satin slippers; a dainty little cap of point lace and crimson ribbons; solidate diamond carrings. She presented a lovely picture, and was the delight of her little guests. As the benuiful little ones gathered around her, many of them robed in some bright, retty color, and others in pure white, they, looked like a bouquet of the choicest flowers, and were loyely

This market and New York orened four to five higher, advancing two more, but closed at opening prices. There are indications today of a revival in demands for spots, and it would seem only a reasonable expectation if it should continue, as there has been so little buying in this market, for either home consumption or export, for the pest sixty days. Dear Sit—Your letter is at hand asking us to examine two specimens of life insurance policies, actually issued and now in force on your life, one issued by the New York Life Insurance Co., and one by the Equitable Life Assurance Society, both of date in the year 18.7: "As thoroughly as we would the title to two pieces of real estate, submitted for our consideration, and to give you our legal opinion of the relative security acquired under each by the insured, and the certainty of payment, free from all insured, and the certainty of payment, free from all

We have made the examination requested by you, and now give youthe result.

The value of any contract to pay money depends value of any contract to pay money depends upon what the payee is required to do in order to obtain the money. From this point of view, the ideal life insurance policy would be a promise to pay a certain sum of money on the death of an individual to a person named in the policy upon the sale condition that the thickness is not provided in the policy. individual to a person named in the policy upon the sole condition that the individual insured should die, and that the premiums of insurance should be paid when due. The more conditions that are added to a policy of this sort, the less valu-able the policy becomes; and when those condi-tions give the insurer the right to go behind the rolling and to insurer into the facts and the statepolicy and to inquire into the facts and the state-ments made or that ought to have been made at the time the policy was taken out, or give him the right to inquire into the manner and cause of the death, the assured when he dies, is liable to transmit a lawsuit to his heirs. With these principles in view, his policy are all limited as to time, to-wit: 1. Travel, residence and occupation are restricted for one year.

2. The death by self-destruction, sane or insane, and death in consequence of a duel, or of a violation of law, are restricted to one year.

3. Untrue statements in the application for the policy avoid it; but such untrue statements must be discovered by the insurer within two years, and notice thereof given to the assured within that

It will thus be seen that for a limited period which in no event exceeds two years, this policy is like the ordinary life insurance polley in its condi-tions and restrictions. But the face of the policy "And the said society does hereby further promise and agree that after two years from the date hereof, the only conditions which shall be binding upon the holder of this policy are, that he shall pay the premiums at the times and places, and in the manner, herein stipulated, and that the regulations of the society as to age and service in war shall be observed, and that in all other respects if the policy matures after the expiration of said two years, this policy shall be indisputstendard of an insurance policy. It, by the consent of the parties, introduces a legal and equitable statute of limitations, as it were, the fulfilment of which cures all nullities, wipes out all conditions and shuts the door to all controversey, and makes the policy as absolute in its terms as a pol c; of this sort can be made.

The statute of limitations established by law whereby a man's property is secured from attack, and from adverse caim of title, is declared by the secures to ce a beneacent statute, and one of the securest props to civilization and to society. The introduction of this wise principle into life insurance policies is in our opinion, the greatest stride of progress that has yet been made in the business, and cannot fail to redound to the mutual benefit of the insurer and the insured—of the insurer by the enormous increase that it must bring in business— of the assured, by the additional security that it affords him.

When a man who has paid his premiums promptly, comes to die, with a policy of this sort upon his life for the benefit of his wife and children, it cannot but b: an overwhelming satisfaction to him to know that the money is obsolutely due upon his death, and that no dispute can arise about the obligation of the company to pay.

The New York Life Policy. UNDER this policy the limit of the restriction upon travel, residence and occupation except by the consent of the company, is fixed at two years, but the company does not at any time assume the risk of death while the assured is engaged in the manufacture of gunpowder, dynamite, and other explosive substances. Death in a duel, or death in violation of law, absolutely and AT ANY IME, annul the policy. The te.m "death in violation of law," is a very broad one, and the full extent of its meaning is not yet settled by the courts. It certainly covers the cise of a person who is executed under condemnation by a court of justice, and it has been held that it covers the case of a person who is killed in an affray, or killed while making an assault upon another. In our southern country, where men are high-tempered and prone to the use of weapons when they become angered, this is a clause which could be made productive of much trouble.

Moreover, this policy has in full force the most objectionable features of the old-style life insurance, risk of death while the assured is engaged in the Nay more, this application contains a broad war ranty that "no circumstance or information been withheld touching the past or present state health or babits of life of the assured with which the New York Life Insurance company outsit to be MADE ACQUAINTED." All facts are relative in their importance. Time only can tell whether they are important or not. While no man can look into the future with the clearness of vision that he can into the past, there is an unavoidable tendency in men to say "if I had known so and so, I would not have done so and so," when in all probability knowledge at the time would have made no difference in their conduct, because they would not have perceived the part the facts were to norist puts it, "It is very easy to substitute 'hind-you."

This clause either means something or it means nothing. If it means nothing it ought to be erased. If it means something, that meaning is indefinite and doubtful, and therefore dangerous, doubly dancerous, because the insurer does not disclose what interpretation he puts on it in each case until after the death of the assured and pay day comes.

The beneficent reindinie of a statute of limitations The beneficent principle of a statute of limitations on the defenses which the company may set up to avoid the policy finds no place in the New York life heir circular today, say: Our cotton market for cer very narrow market all day, and almost the entire absence of orders left business in the hands of the ring scalpers. We noticed some covering of the near months, white some selling of July and August at about the top figures of the day gave us small reactiens. The sensitiveness of the market is at once shown by the effect of legitimate orders. A few hundred bales either way established new quotations. Spots are dull but steady.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The transactions in the stock market today, except for those of the first stock market today, except for those of the first hour, were dull, tame and uninteresting, with a general drift toward lower values, and accompanied by small and insignificant fluctuations. There was some buying for foreign account, to which was due the advances shown at the opening and what little strength marked the declines at odd times, but the liquidations of the past week were continued, though on a smaller scale, and of this continued, though on a smaller scale, and of this the bears were quick to take advantage. There was no special pressure noticeable, however, ex-copt in Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific, Burlington cept in Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific, Burlington and Quincy, and a few specialties. Richmond and West Point stocks, however, were marked exceptions to the general rule, buying in them being very good, and early in the day sharp advances were established, which had the effect also of rallying the general list. The usual leading shares—Reading, Lackawanna, Western Union and St. Paul—were active, but their fluctuations were not important and very little feature was developed. The market closed dull and heavy at the close to the lowest prices of the day. Total sales, 219,000 shares. Almost everything is lower, though a few fractional advances were made, but Burlington and Quincy is down 2, Canada Southern and Wheeling and Lake Erie 1½, Rock Island 1, and the remainder fractional amounts.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in CHICAGO, April 9-[Special.]-The bulls, who have had a hard time of it in the provision pit for good form for those who have been called on so ex-cessively for margins, and not only turned the ta-bles upon the bears, but drove them to cover at a lively rate. Outsiders, who have let pork severely alone for a long time, also fell in with the numerous buying orders. Many new faces were also seen in the pit. A firm which has been the recognized head of the bull party, was ready to take cash pork on May contracts, and pay for it and exchange 5,000 barrels May for an equal quantity of eash at $13.80 with the packing company. It was also rumored that a local bank had offered to loan the firm $1,000,000 necessary to carry the deal through. The officials of the bank, however, are noted for their close acuteness, and even if they were willing to loan any such amount, they would not be apt to tell of it. The story had the effect of scaring bears into covring, and the price for May advanced from $13.40 to $13.50, hung around that figure for a time. the denly started upward. A good many stop orders at $13,50 and above, but broke and were unable to cover at the limit, as the market was decidedly one-sided, and advanced to $14.00 with hardly a reaction. A recession to $13.82\% followed, but prices rgain touched $14.00 and the market closed firm, after slight fluctuations, at $14.00—an advance of 55c over last Saturday's closing. The large bears traded freely, and bought and sold on the way up, but bought more than they sold. Short ribs wer irecity, and bought and sold on the way up, but bought more than they sold. Short ribs were active and closed 10s higher. Lard was quiet at 7.58@7.55. The grain pits were fairly active with a firm feeling and steady prices at opening, followed by slight declines in all directions before noon. Receipts were about as estimated, and the visible supply figures showed the expected decrease. There were many sketches on the subject of damages to crops, although authority reports from Indiana and Illinois points said that 25 per cent of winter wheat was being plowed under for oats and corn. Deferred futures showed more weakness than May, which closed but 14@9.c lower than on Saturday, while June and July closed at about 15c lower. It was a day of scalping in corn. There was no special prominent interest at work to either bulge or depress the market. The prospects of the opening of navigation make short selling anxious. May opened at 625.c best point of the day—sold down to 624.c, then up to 525.c, and later in the session touched 252.c days, closing at 625.c.

Outs sold as they have for days, closing around 31c for May.

The following was the range in the leading futures in Chicago today:

WHEAT— Opening. Highest. Closing May — 764. 775.4 775.2 Corn.

British Grain Market. The Mark Lane Express says: Deliveries of na-tive wheat are falling off rapidly, yet prices continue in favor of buyers. The sales of week were 41,596 In layor of buyers. The sales of week were 41,596 quariers at 29s, against 46,185 quariers at 28s and 8d for corresponding week last year. Flour is depressed. Foreign wheat continues lifeless. Stocks at London increase weekly. The present quantities warehoused are 358,625 quariers; approach greatest known. Liverpool quoted wheat 1d per cental lower. Corn firm. Oats have upward tendency. At today's market wheat was steadier. Flour declined 3d. Corn was 366d dearer. Oats advanced 3d.

The Austin Drill.

Mr. Chas. F. Hicks, of Austin, Tex., vice-president of the Austin drill and military encampment, who is in the city in the interest of his encampment, called on the Rifles at their armory last night, and in a very neat little address, gave them a very pressing invitation to attend his drill. He guaranteed them that it would be the grandest military parade ever seen in this country. He stated that in addition to the United States militia, Mexico would be well represented with both military and be well represented with both military and music. Mr. Hicks, in closing his address, stated that he had seen nearly all the companies drill that has yet entered, and none of them stands a better chance of winning the first prize than the Rifles.

The Nashville Drill.
The Atlanta Rifles and the Atlanta Artil-The Atlanta Rifles and the Atlanta Artillery have definitely determined to participate in the prize drill in Nashville next month. Both companies are drilling assiduously for that contest. For several weeks the members of the Rifles have been drilling nearly every night. Captain Snead says his men are in superb trim and he is certain they will win one of the highest prizes. Captain Forbes has equal confidence in his men. They will begin active drilling this afternoon.

men were about equally divided. Many prominent society people were present, and among them were some of the best singers of the city.

Mr. Summer Salter wielded the baton, and Mrs. Richards played the accompaniment.

Four or five choruses were practiced until they went with a good deal of smoothness. Every rehearsal will improve the singers, and it is reasonable to expect that by this time next week the choruses will all go well. It is safe to predict that the choruses, accompanied by the full band, will be the grandest music ever heard in Atlanta.

Last night the singers entered into their work with genuine enthusiasm and sang with spirit. They were loath to quit singing at 10 o'clock, the hour for adjournment.

Mr. Salter announced that there would be another full rehearsal in the opera house at 4 o'clock this afternoon, but no rehearsal tonight. There will also be a general rehearsal tomorrow night. He cordially invites all singers, male and female, to come forward and enter their names. It is very important for them to come without delay, for no time is to be lost. It should be borne in mind that all the singers will be transported to and from the Piedmont park free of charge, and will be admitted to all the concerts free. It is desired that the clorus shall contain not less than 500 singers. Atlanta should furnish at least 400 of these, and the others will come from Marietta, West Point, Athens and other towns.

In addition to the attractions offered by Professor Gillmore in the way of a musical treat to all who attend his jubilee on the 19th. 20th, and 21st, people at a distance will be enabled to come to Atlanta during those three days at a very much lower rate than regular fare for the round trip. Commissioner Slaughter has the matter now under consideration and will fix a rate in a few days which will be duly announced to the readers of The Constitution.

jubilee Gilmore supassed anything in the musical history of the union. He had traveled in every country in Europe, playing at the courts of the rulers of the greatest nations on earth, and yet never gave an entertainment to equal his Boston jubilee, although he vanguished every celebrated band across the waters, and gained the title of the greatest band and see what Atlanta will do for him.

The tickets will be on sale in a few days.

Mr. Charlie Howard has the board about completed, and everyone who wishes to enjoy at home, and at a nominal price, a musical treat which many southern people have traveled thousands of miles to see, will do well to watch for the appearance of the board and secure good seats. TWO SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTIONS.

Both meetings were held in the office of Mr. Aaron Haas, corner of Alabama and Pryor streets. The attendance was very full, and much important business was transacted.

Transacted.

The first to hold its meeting was the Empire
Loan and Building association. Mr. Aaron Haas, secretary and treasurer, submitted his sixth annual report as follows:

In submitting this, my sixth annual report, I beg to refer to the continued prosperity of the association, as verified by a reference to the share values. The net profit on each series being at the rate of eighteen per cent per annum, redounding alike to the benent of borrowers and non-borrowers. There remain 82° shares of the first series uncancelled, which will mature after the June payment, and as the receits between now and that date will not amount to enough to pay off the whole number of outstanding first series shares, it will be wise to consider a plan which will satisfy all stockholders and be unjust to none. Respectfully submitted,

AATO: HAAS,

Secretary and Treasurer.

By request of president and board of directors of Empire Loan and Building association, we have examined the books of the secretary and treasurer, and found them correct and well kept.

HOW MEMBERS EMPLOY THEIR TIME

The Doors All Locked and the Member Not Allowed to Depart-A Desperate Game

WASHINGTON, April 10.-[Special.]-Some of the northern and western papers have in the past few days been booming Samuel V. Wilson, of California, to succeed Chief Justice Waite, and even say he has the president's favorable consideration. However, spinion is still pre-valent here that Speaker Carlisle is to be the successful one.

The commissioner of pensions is advised that William Graham, William A. Dillshaw and R. G. Chambers have been held to answer at Atlanta, Ga., on charge of compiracy to de-fraud the government and using false athidavits in support of a pension claim. ator Brown today introduced a memorial from the State Agricultural society of Georgia asking an appropriation sufficient to clean out the Altamaha, the Oconee and the Ocmulgee rivers. Senator Brown says he will attempt, when the river and harbor bill reaches the senate, to have the Savannah harbor appropriation of $90,000 increased to $200,000. He has hopes of success.

The lobby which is here in the interest of the passage of the direct tax bill is indeed alarming. It is doubtful if there ever was so formidable an army of outsiders who seem dotermined to break into the treasury as daily growd the halls and corridors of the capitol. Every state which has any money coming to it under the provisions of the bill has sent its agents to help deplete the treasury. The scenes in and about the capitol building, so far as concern the lobby and lobbyists, put to shame anything seen here even during the days of reckless and class-legislation immediately following the close of the war. It would seem that the passage of the direct tax is but the be-ginning of the great war to be made upon the treasury, and depleting it with the view of rendering unnecessary any tariff legislation. It has been the purpose of the republicans, in case they passed the direct tax bill, to force other appropriations through with a whirl. To empty the treasury is apparently the watchword with the republicans. With the Blair bill, the dependent pension bill, the fortifica-tion bill, the Wilkins national banking bill, which proposes to increase the volume of bank notes equal to the marketable value of the bonds on deposit, the Pacific railroad bill, the bill to divide the public lands among poor ex-federal soldiers, and to lend them government money at the rate of two per cent per annum, and many other similar measures the republicans hope to pass. they may so empty the treasury and distribute the surplus that it will take years to accu mulate the amount new on hand. Aside from their purpose to effect the tariff question, it is as well the wish of the republicans to make this congress an extravagant one that it may be used for campaign purposes at the coming election, and to the discredit of the party in

The action of the flibusters is to stop, if possible, this extravagance and save the party from ruin. As an evidence of the strength of the lobby, fortified by the claimants they have in the country, representatives in congress are daily in receipt of hundreds of letters from the states asking for the names of the various claimants. The commissioner of internal revenue is also receiving thousands of letters daily from claimants making the same inquiries, as in his office is lodged the archives and records of the collection of the tax and th names of the persons paying the same. The monstrous character of the job which the republicans, with the help of some democrats are trying to put through the house is understood, and the governors of each of the states interested in the direct tax bill have been telegraphed to in regard to their agents and the amount to be paid each, provided the bill is passed. Replies have been received from sixteen states, which will receive in commissions $2,266,257.

The following are the amounts that will be paid the agents for the states named if the bill becomes a law: Iowa, $96,068; Kansas, $6,236; Kentucky, $30,332; Maine, $89,425; Maryland, $130,000; Massachusetts, $175,223; Michigan, $170,599; Minnesota, $23,064; Missouri, $97,-043; New York, $319,815; North Carolina, $90,000; Ohio, $133,202 South Carolina, $127,244; California, $49,489; New Hampshire, $18,564, and Pennsylvania, $248,204. At this hour (11 o'clock) there is every indication that the session will last throughout the night. If such thing could be, each side is possessed of more determination to maintain their respective positions than ever before. All dilatory tactics have been practically abandoned during the day and night, other than a call of the house. day and night, other than a call of the house. Every door to the chamber is locked, save one, which leads to the restaurant. Members are not allowed outside the building, and the sergeant-at-arms and his deputies are scouring the city for absentees. The cloak rooms have been transformed into gay scenes of revelry, while some of the committee rooms are occupied by members who are passing the night in stiff and spirited games of poker. Every one is in a good humor, and many older members are stretched out upon sofas sleeping the sleep, if not of the innocent, that of a tired and worn out statesman.

BUTLER'S SCATHING REPLY To Remarks Made by Mr. Edgerton Last

Washington, April 10.—In the senate, the bill to remove the political disabilities of John Rutledge, of South Carolina, was reported from the judiciary committee and passed.
On motion of Mr. Sherman, the Freedmen's bank bill was taken from the calendar and referred to the committee on finance.

The international copyright bill was made a special order for Thursday next, after the pleuro-pneumonia bill.

The senate then resumed consideration of the bill to authorize the sale to aliens of certain mineral lands, the question being on the amendment offered by Mr. Faulkner, requiring a majority of the stockholders, trustees or directors of the mining company to be citizens of the United States.

The amendment was rejected—20 to 31.

After several amendments of the phraseology of the bill it was passed—yeas 31, nays 13.

It reads as follows:

That the act entitled "an act to restrict the ownership of real estate in the territories to American citizens," etc., approved March 3, 1887, shall not relate to or in any manner affect the title to mineral lands or mining claims in territories of the United States which may be acquired or held under the mineral land laws of the United States, nor to mills or other reduction works or property used in the production of metals from said mineral lands or claims; but as to all such mineral lands, mining claims, mills, reduction works, and other property laws of the United States and of the territories, shall be (until changed by an act of congress or an act of the territorial lagislature) the same as though said act had not passed,
